

KUNKEL CALLS FOR REDUCTIONS IN TAXES, BORROWING

Candidate for G. O. P. Seat in Senate Speaks at Scranton

HITS DUFF'S SPENDING

Says Governor Outspent Even Governor Earle Regime

SCRANTON, Apr. 19 — (INS)—Congressman John C. Kunkel, candidate for the GOP nomination for a seat in the U. S. Senate, called today for heavy reductions in government taxation and borrowing.

Kunkel, in a statewide radio broadcast from Scranton last night, lashed out at the spending and borrowing policies of Gov. James H. Duff, his opponent in the primary race.

He characterized Duff as having "spent more money, pushed taxes higher and done more borrowing than any other governor in Pennsylvania history."

Kunkel declared that Duff "turned out to be more of a spender than even the little new deal regime" of ex-Gov. George H. Earle. He criticized the governor for re-establishing "fictitious state agencies called 'authorities,'" which he defined as a "sleight of hand method of confusion and misdirection and indirect borrowing."

Kunkel spoke as follows: "Tonight I wish to talk about liberty and taxation."

It's a timely subject. One of the worst perils which this country faces is that of economic collapse brought on by a rat-race of runaway taxes trying to catch up with runaway spending.

That is the sort of rat-race which has wrecked more great nations in history than have wars or pestilences.

It is one which can bring this proud nation into the dust—impoverish this generation, and leave to posterity no more than the husks of the abundance which America has enjoyed.

Long ago a wise man said: "The power to tax is the power to destroy."

Those of us who study the public problems of the times are well aware of the truth in that saying. Overtaxation is eating like dry-rot at the foundations of our national economy.

When the time has come that a man has to work one full day a week to pay taxes on what he earns in four other days—when the time has come that hidden taxes are to be counted by the scores and the hundreds—when the time has come that the annual tax bill is more than the whole American people earned in some years within our lifetime.

Then the time is ripe for all citizens to become tax-conscious.

The time is here for the real owners of this country, the American people, to rise up in self-defense and compel their government to call a halt.

It is a first principle of American liberty that taxes be imposed only with the consent of the people. That principle was set forth in the Declaration of Independence, and it was set forth again in the Federal Constitution.

In our national government, for years there has been a bitter tug-of-war over taxes between the legislative and executive branches of government. The only time I remember our Vice-President, Alben Barkley, ever rising up to resist the expansion of power in the executive branch was when he flared back at President Roosevelt for

Young Club Women Will Be "Polio" Investigators

NEW HOPE, Apr. 19 — At a dinner meeting of Bucks County Junior Clubwomen held last week in New Hope Methodist Church, William Rawak, of Tineum, chairman of the Bucks county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, made an urgent appeal for volunteer investigators, one from each of the 12 communities represented at the meeting. The duties of an investigator, he said, would be to distribute booklets in her community and to assist parents of a victim receiving aid from the Foundation in filling out a routine questionnaire.

In describing the work of the Foundation, which supplies hospital and post-hospital treatment, including wheel chairs, special shoes and braces for those who cannot afford the care otherwise, Mr. Rawak said the cost to the Foundation for each case is tremendous. It can run as high as $3,000 a month in the early stages. He also said that of persons contracting the disease, 40-60% recover, 25-35% have a moderate chance of recovery, 15-25% are permanently crippled, and about 8% die.

The 60 present voted unanimously to supply one worker from each club to be chosen at the next club meeting.

Another guest was Miss Dorothy Shelly, of Fountainville, who displayed some of her hand-painted articles such as antique mirrors and picture frames, pie pans, frying pans, and old phonograph records converted into attractive trays. Her work is said to show originality and artistic ability.

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

CLEANED BY SCRIBES

Fire, which broke out Thursday in an apartment undergoing renovations in Buttonwood Inn, Lahaska, was discovered by a member of the family before it did more than $500 damage to the historic hotel.

Matthew Hardigan, who lives in the one end of the large hotel, discovered the fire in a section which was at one time a barber shop. A fire had been burning in the fire place and it is believed that sparks from the hearth set afire some of the shavings left by the workers.

Midway Fire Company was called and under the direction of Chief George W. Davis the fire was put out, but not before it had damaged some of the partitions, the boards in the old-fashioned floor and some open beam work in the ceiling.

The owner of the hotel is making several tourist apartments in the structure.

Chief Davis said the booster supply of water was adequate to quell the flames which were difficult to subdue because they were burning inside the partitions.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Trauger on Friday observed their golden wedding anniversary at their home on the Blooming Glen-Silverdale highway in Hilltown township.

Their eight children with their families, which include 31 grandchildren and one great grandchild, participated in the anniversary which was featured by a dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Trauger were united on Friday, April 19, 1900.

YOUTH WEEK ACTIVITIES . . .

Youth Week opens here May 22nd and will extend through May 27th. Various activities are scheduled and the participants will be from Bristol Borough and from Bristol Township. Contests will be held and for these the boys and girls of the area are now eligible within the age limit.

Rules governing the marbles contest follow:

The Lag: Before the game the players lag to determine the order of shooting. To lag, they stand toeing the pitch line or knocking down upon it, and toss or shoot their shooters to the lag line across the ring. The player whose shooter comes nearest the lag line, on either side, wins the lag and the privilege of shooting first. The same shooter that is used in the lag must be used in the game following the lag.

Playing Rules: Each player in turn knuckles down just outside the ring line, at any point he chooses, and shoots into the ring to knock one or more marbles out of the ring. A player must knuckle down on all shots so that at least one knuckle is in contact with the ground, and he must maintain this position until the shooter has left his hand.

Marbles knocked out of the ring are credited to the player knocking them out and the player continues to shoot from the spot where his shooter comes to rest. If a shooter goes outside of the ring, after shooting a marble out, the player recovers it and continues by shooting from the ring line, taking roundsters if desired, that is, shooting from any point around the ring.

After a miss, a player picks up his shooter and holds it until his next turn and then takes roundsters and shoots from any point of the ring line.

Whenever a marble or shooter comes to rest in the groove marking the ring, it is considered out of the ring. If its center is inside the ring it is considered inside the ring.

If a shooter slips from a player's hand and the player calls "slips" the referee may order "no play" and permit the player to shoot again, provided the shooter does not travel more than ten inches and the referee is convinced it was an actual slip.

Marbles knocked out of the ring are picked up by the player who knocks them out.

Scoring: The player first obtaining seven marbles of the thirteen is the winner of the game, providing that on obtaining the 7th marble the shooter also goes out of the ring. If the shooter remains in the ring on this shot, the marble or marbles knocked out on this shot are re-spotted on the cross line, the shooter is considered in and the game continues on Page Two

Doylestown Children Prove Good Fishermen

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 19 — The Doylestown municipal-sanctioned community fishing dam attracted more than 200 children during the week-end.

The fishing project is sponsored by the Bucks County Fish and Game Association and the Doylestown Recreational Council, assisted by interested dads and members of the Doylestown Emergency Police.

So successful were the opening days that a request will be made to have police protection and guidance during certain hours.

"The opening week-end kept nearly 200 youngsters off the streets and corners," one dad remarked.

At three o'clock on Sunday afternoon there were 127 youngsters fishing for trout, and many parents were at the dam looking on.

The biggest fish was a 10 inch trout caught by "Larry" Moyer, the champ of the opening week-end. Moyer got his limit.

TO DEMONSTRATE FIRE HAZARDS AND CAUSES

Affair To Be Held in Bensalem Twp. High School Tomorrow Evening

PUBLIC IS INVITED

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Apr. 19 — Through the efforts of Cornwells Fire Co. No. 1 and Cornwells Parent Teachers Association the members and friends of Cornwells Parent Teachers Association will witness at eight o'clock tomorrow evening, in the auditorium of Bensalem Township High School, Bristol Pike, Cornwells Heights, a brilliant demonstration of fire hazards and their cause, conducted by F. A. Hoffman and Jesse Tearnson two members of the Sparks Club. The Sparks Club, which is one of the largest fire clubs of its kind in the United States, has taken upon itself the responsibility of acquainting and educating the public to the most common fire hazards they will find in their own homes, factories, schools, churches, and farms.

At the present time the club has six demonstration kits with sufficient trained personnel to adequately service the territory now covered.

As of this date, thousands of persons have witnessed the demonstration which has become so publicized and popular that it was presented before the national convention of mutual insurance companies held in Columbus, Ohio, as well as at the National Association of Mutual Insurance Agents' meeting held in Cleveland, Ohio, in October 1947, at which time it was acclaimed the most outstanding demonstration of its kind ever witnessed. Requests are now being received from all points in the United States for information concerning these demonstration kits.

The report showed that the water supply together with the ability of the pumps rated 53 per cent deficient, the distribution of water mains and service is 57 per cent deficient and dead ends in the water service constitute a 26 per cent deficiency.

Gate valve and hydrant spacing on the water lines are rated as "good" and the pumping capacity of Perkaskie's apparatus is adequate but the pumps "are not kept in tip-top condition."

Because of small mains and old pipes, the ability of the system to deliver an adequate fire demand flow is below requirements.

In the report is a recommendation that the fire company's oldest pumper be replaced by a modern ladder truck. The company's ladder-service was rated 100 per cent deficient.

The hose supply is 37 per cent below standard requirements and the firemen could strengthen their efficiency by regular drills and practices.

Perkaskie firemen answered five calls during April according to the report submitted by Chief Paul Myers. Chief Myers also reported that three carbon dioxide extinguishers have been installed on the fire trucks.

The annual joint dinner meeting of the Sellersville, Silverdale and Perkaskie Companies will be held in the fire house on Wednesday evening, April 19.

There will be no meeting of St. Ann's Auxiliary on Thursday. The next meeting will be on May 4 when nomination of officers will take place.

RESCUE SQUAD TO MEET

The monthly meeting of the Bucks County Rescue Squad will be held on Thursday evening at eight o'clock in the headquarters, Croydon.

Pastor and Wife Are Surprised On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Thomas celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary by a trip to Chicago, Ill., the journey being a gift from their children. While there they stayed at Moody Bible Institute where their daughters, Mrs. Edwina Wandel and Miss Blanche Thomas, are students.

Mr. Thomas is pastor of Newport Road Community Chapel, West Bristol. The 3rd Saturday of each month they have a "Youth Rally" whose slogan is "Help win the Youth with the Truth."

The Thomases arrived home Friday evening in order to attend the rally Saturday which occurred on the anniversary of their wedding day.

They were surprised upon arrival at the chapel to find relatives and friends gathered. Among them were the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Fraser. The Rev. Mr. Fraser is known as the "blind singing evangelist" of Phila. He sang several numbers.

The Rev. Wallace Jones, former radio preacher of Jamison, gave the message. Julius Bellardo, also former radio player on "The Moments of Sunshine" program, Trenton, N. J., played several numbers on his violin and electric guitar. A trio of girls from Philadelphia sang.

The congregation and guests were invited to the basement for refreshments. The basement was decorated with white and silver ribbon and large silver bells. A delicious repast was served. Many gifts awaited the Thomases. The Ladies Aid of the chapel gave Mr. and Mrs. Thomas an electric percolator, cream pitcher, sugar bowl and tray.

The young people gave them a toaster. Many other gifts were received. Miss Blanche Thomas, of Phila., made the surprise possible with the young people of the chapel aiding.

YOUTH WEEK PLANS BEING PERFECTED BY THE COMMITTEE

John Price Takes Over The Leadership in First Ward

F. RUSSO, 5TH WARD

Name Eligibility Committee To Pass Upon All Contestants

Youth Week plans really went forward, last evening, when the committee met in the Elks Home and took up for consideration the many details necessary to make the affair a great success. The directors of the various activities submitted fine reports and interest and enthusiasm marked the entire session.

Maxwell J. Gordon presided as chairman, substituting for Thomas James who was called out-of-town on business. Horace Schmidt officiated as secretary.

John Price took over the leadership of the first ward and Frank Russo the fifth ward. John Paglione, chairman of the talent contest, said that in these contests the age limit would be 16, as in the other contests, but there will be no age groups. There will be first, second and third prizes. The week's activities is to extend from May 22nd to May 27th.

The Bristol Pike has been declared the boundary line, dividing Croydon and West Bristol. Charles Richman, chairman of prize committee, told the group that he expects to report in detail at the next meeting.

Stephen Midouhas, head of the food committee, reported that he had obtained prices for refreshments and that it is thought that considerable money can be saved, if a group of women can be organized to prepare the sandwiches and refreshments with the committee providing the food. An appeal is made to the women in the various wards to contact the ward leaders and offer their services. The women prepared the luncheon for the big Bucks County Firemen's parade held here two years ago, and did it very successfully. It is a similar plan that it is hoped can be followed for the Youth Week.

School records are to be accepted as proof of the ages of the contestants.

An eligibility committee was named consisting of Harry McClister, Walter Miller, Henry Morgan, Jerry Bloom and John Paglione. All entry slips must be filed two days previous to the date the event is scheduled.

The marble contest will be staged on the Memorial Park tennis courts and the basketball throw will be held on the Memorial Park basketball court.

Otto Grupp is to head the roller skating events.

FLY FROM WEST

MORRISVILLE, Apr. 19 — When John S. Foote, Morrisville merchant, suffered a heart attack recently, his sons, Charles and John Foote, flew their airplane from Cheyenne, Wyo., to Morrisville airport. They report encountering several bad snow storms enroute. Charles is employed by a tobacco firm, and John operates a grocery business in Cheyenne.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

We've finally gotten a return on the money we've been spending abroad. . . . India sent us a pair of elephants.

But the Administration wired "Is that any way to thank a Democrat?"

These are brown elephants. . . . It takes us a little longer to find that we've got white elephants too.

But these two have been admitted to the zoo in Washington where they will handle any peanut surplus from now on.

Sec. Brannan still hopes that some source will come through with a potato eater and that will solve another problem.

I don't know just how much we're spending to support the price of peanuts but it can be taken for granted that it isn't peanuts.

NO LETDOWN
Since the beginning of time man has sought to go nature at least one better in providing for his own development and survival. In the latter centuries he has made significant progress.

His strides in the Twentieth Century have been such as to make him rather cavalier about the whole thing. But few can view the work of Drs. Stokstad and Jukes without realizing what a phenomenal pace is being maintained.

The two chemists told their colleagues at the annual American Chemical Society meeting that the antibiotic aureomycin has spectacular properties not hitherto suspected. In the course of research with animals and poultry this wonder drug was found to have unprecedented growth promoting value. Mixed in minute quantities with the ordinary diet of chickens, turkeys and pigs, the drug is producing super strains of these food producers.

No one knows why aureomycin works as it does. That phase of the experiment is now in progress.

The thought that immediately comes to mind is the effect the drug might have on undernourished and undersized children. Drs. Stokstad and Jukes have hinted this might be the next development. If so, the significance it holds for a world faced with mounting populations and dwindling natural resources is obvious.

The annual sessions of the ACS can always be depended upon to reveal something new in the form of present or future benefits for mankind. This year's proceedings have lived up to advance billing.

SPENDING BY WEIGHT

Taxpayers who supply the money have inadequate comprehension of the enormous sum spent by the federal government every year. The present budget is $41,000,000,000.

Expressed in figures there is an imposing array of ciphers, which does not make it clear that in every billion there are one thousand millions, and in every million there are one thousand thousands. All of which is far beyond average human understanding or contemplation.

However it is viewed, $41,000,000,000 is a tremendous sum. It is pointed out that six men were necessary to carry off the million dollars stolen in the Brink holdup in Boston. On that basis 246,000 strong men would be required to carry the sum spent by the federal government every year, if it were all in paper currency. In silver dollars it would take more than 30,000,000 men to carry the load, if each man toted 100 pounds.

As fantastic as these conclusions may seem they do point up the enormity of federal spending. Widespread protests against spendthrift government are long overdue. Such protests must be followed by action on the part of the people if the peril of bankruptcy is to be avoided.

The time may come when Uncle Sam will be spoken of as a great guy while he had it.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Refreshing Independence

Washington, April 19.—THE contention has often been made that the labor bosses do not always speak for the rank and file of labor and are never able to deliver it solidly at the polls. Proof of the first is not easy because the power of the bosses is such as to make dissent dangerous and unprofitable for the ordinary union man. Also boss control of the channels of publicity is almost monopolistic and the voice of a dissenter is usually muffled.

AS TO the second, there is ample evidence that when it comes to voting there is nothing like complete solidarity among union members. Time and again, with the labor bosses united in opposition, they have failed in their objective because part of their following voted the other way or did not vote at all. Recognition of these facts is the force behind the present movement, initiated by the CIO and recently endorsed by Mr. Green, of the AFL, for the merging of all American labor unions into a single federation. The CIO idea, not yet endorsed by Mr. Green, is that, pending the merger, the AFL cooperate politically with it. This would place both labor organizations behind the Truman program and the Democratic ticket in 1950 and 1952.

IN EFFECT, it would make a union labor party out of the Democratic party and give the labor bosses a dominating influence in the party councils. To a large extent, they have had that sort of influence for a number of years and it has become a rather humiliating Democratic custom to "clear" candidates through the labor politicians. How much, if any, the proposed merger would enhance the real political strength of union labor remains to be seen. Also, there are two points of view as to whether in the long run it would be healthy for the country, the party, or even for labor.

IN THIS connection it is interesting to present the view of the Union, the oldest labor newspaper in the United States, which has been published monthly in Indianapolis since 1876 and is now in its seventy-fifth year. Describing itself as independent, in a front-page editorial in the current issue under the caption "Labor Faces a Political Trap," the Union says of the move to merge: "Under the influence of shortsighted men the AFL has virtually turned its back upon its time-tested political non-partisan policy and is moving by rapid steps toward the establishment with the CIO of a class labor party."

CONTINUING, it says: "There are increasing signs that the end of the Truman Administration will see an open move by top labor leaders in that direction. To implement this policy, all freedom of political choice is now being ruthlessly stamped out among AFL union officials and publications. The design is to have a monolithic and enforced unity of labor behind a single political party. Such a policy means disaster for both labor and the nation. The AFL has grown great by following the policy of never entangling itself with any party. Gompers saw clearly the trap which class politics presented and stood like granite against the schemes of the Socialists. Imprudent men in the high places of American unionism are now trying

Helping Nervous Children

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

LONG and often have I held forth the slogan: "Celebrate Successes." So today I shall pass along a few accounts of good parental achievements.

"Dear Dr. Myers:
"A few months ago I wrote you for help concerning our eight-year-old daughter who had rheumatic fever and was getting hard for me to manage. I'm so grateful to you for the help you gave in your letter as well as in your leaflet, 'The Nervous Child.' Just writing to me that I've been a burden from me that I've been able to see more clearly how to adjust myself as well as her." Let me note here that many mothers say they get emotional relief from writing me about their problems. Some say the problem seemed to clear up without doing anything about it. The latter I used to hear many times from young mothers at the end of a university course to parents I once taught.

Now I go on from this mother—"After I had written you lightning worked a miracle, if I may call it that. During a thunder storm lightning struck an electric wire hurting the condenser in our radio. I was able to observe first hand the effect of the radio on the nervous child and the effect of change of no exciting radio programs is tremendous. My daughter became ever so much more cooperative and ever so responsive to my suggestions.

Started to Read
"Also at your suggestion I started to read much more to her and she surely enjoys it. I've made use of your list of 'Books for the Child from Six to Twelve,' and got four from our public library and she's looking forward to scuttling this proven policy and commit labor to a dangerous experiment. They are being influenced by designing outsiders, such as Senator Hubert Humphrey and Governor Bowles, who hope to use labor for their own selfish ambitions. Although formerly there were always representatives of both parties on the AFL executive council and in the local bodies, today a united Truman front is enforced. Those who disagree with this rash policy are effectively silenced. The whole policy is cockeyed and unrealistic."

THIS, it will be agreed, is pretty independent and courageous stuff. So far as known no other labor publication has ever publicly disagreed with the bosses. Primarily, their purpose is to reflect the bossen views and they do so in a completely slavish manner. Just how the Union maintains its independence is not clear, but beyond question it is refreshing. Also, this front-page editorial is not the only independent article in the April issue. On an inside page it reprints, with obvious approval, a piece from the Wage Earner, a newspaper published by the Association of Catholic Trade Unions, headed "Should Labor Mobilize to Defeat Senator Taft?"

to getting different books every two weeks. Even the younger children were delighted and wanted to be read to or to listen as I read to their big sister. I was amazed at all the books the library has for children. I also found your book, 'The Modern Parent,' and it has helped me." Then she asked for other bulletins. The two she referred to may be had by anyone else in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.

Another mother who says she has been reading my column since long before her marriage writes: "Through your suggestions I realized why my daughter six years old was continually sucking her lower lip and took steps to show her more attention, whereupon she stopped it. And it had been going on for four years."

Lip Sucking

Of course, some hard cases of lip sucking, tongue sucking and thumb sucking don't clear up so quickly when more attention and affection are given. Too, there may be more complicated problems or, as in the case of the only child, little or no jealousy. Even so, the cause usually is emotional and the cure comes from improving the environment so the child will feel more calm and secure. This means a more relaxed and affectionate family atmosphere and a program inducing more serenity and feeling of all-is-well in the child.

Of first importance to the child who sucks the tongue, thumb, or lips is how happy and secure the parents and how free from inner conflicts each of them is. Of second importance is the avoidance of scolding, punishing, shaming of the child for the habit. Vast are the mysteries of emotions.

The answer to this question in the article is an emphatic no. So, far from denouncing Senator Taft, he is commended as a broadminded, able and honest man. Concerning the law, it is declared that labor brought the Taft-Hartley Act on itself by failing to keep its house in order and that its operation is not necessarily bad at all.

CONCLUDING, the article says, "What a mature long-range view it would be for labor to expend more effort in eliminating labor racketeering, petty pork-chop dynasties and otherwise harmful activities and less on narrow, short-range political action. Instead of the herculean task of changing the Senator, labor then would face the relatively simple task of changing the Senator's mind." Comment upon these utterances in the oldest labor newspaper in the country would be superfluous. They speak for themselves. Certainly, they bear out the contention that the bosses do not always reflect the rank and file.

Kunkel Calls for Reductions In Taxes and Borrowing

trying to dictate the tax policies of Congress.

But Barkley has become reconciled, and more and more the tax programs are written by the President rather than by the Congress which the Constitution set up as the people's own representatives in this most sensitive of all the fields of government.

The New Deal invented a way to levy taxes without passing tax laws. They invented the schemes of borrowing vast sums for current needs, spending the money and leaving the bills where the future governments would have no choice but to levy taxes to repay them.

Financing a government by borrowing against posterity is simply a neat way of levying taxes without consent of the governed. The children and grandchildren who will inherit our swollen national debt will get the tax bills for present extravagance—even though they weren't around when the money was spent.

That's all wrong. It's wrong in morals and it's wrong in economics. It's wrong in statesmanship too—for once a government finds an easy way to borrow, then the lid is off, and nothing but stern measures on the part of the people can head off a spectacular slide into inflation and ruin.

There is nothing new about the struggle between government and people over how much the government shall be allowed to tax and spend. Civil wars were fought in France and England, for example, to win for the people the right of deciding how much taxes they were to pay.

Two different ways were invented by which the people could be sure that spending and taxation would go ahead only with their consent. One is the method of the Federal Constitution, where all laws appropriating money or levying taxes are to originate in Congress, which is the people's own branch of the government—elected by the people, and directly responsible to them.

The other is the one contained in the Pennsylvania Constitution, and familiar also in all local units of government in this state. By this plan, all government borrowing of any size must be approved by a vote of the people themselves before it can go ahead.

You are all familiar with the fact that your borough, township or county has had to have a referendum before it was permitted to sell bonds in large amounts. The school districts have operated under the same plan. And so has the state government.

In this respect, the citizens of Pennsylvania have added insurance compared with the situation at Washington.

There is no constitutional limit on the national debt. The only restraint lies in the willingness and ability of your United States Senators and Representatives to stick to a "live within your income" policy. Congress and the President can borrow any amount they wish, so long as they can find a market for the bonds. But in Pennsylvania, the Governor and the Legislature, according to the plan of the Constitution, were required to obtain the consent of the voters before they increased the public debt.

Now, for anyone who believes in free government, who believes in government by the people and in taxation only with the consent of the public, it is hard to see how he could find fault with such a plan.

As a matter of fact, the Pennsylvania plan, that of requiring bonded debt be incurred by the state government only with the consent of the people, worked admirably for sixty years. It was not seriously questioned from 1874, when the present Constitution went into effect, until 1934, which is the year the Little New Deal took over in Pennsylvania.

But the Little New Dealers were spenders. They were familiar with the philosophy of the late Harry Hopkins, most famous of the New Deal braintrusts, who preached this doctrine: "Spend, spend, spend, tax, tax, tax, and elect, elect, elect."

They skyrocketed the state taxes—but they wanted more to spend than even the swollen tax receipts permitted.

So they found a way to get around the Constitution. They set up fictitious state agencies called "authorities" which could borrow the money and spend it for the Little New Dealers, without the debt being technically considered part of the Commonwealth's debt.

This was an evasion of the Constitution's intent. I'm not talking about the technicalities of the law—I'm talking about sound public morals and the intention of the Pennsylvania Constitution to prohibit the state government from borrowing and spending vast sums of money without consulting the public which would have to pay the bills.

After the Little New Dealers, two Republican governors overcame and reversed the spending tide. They put the state's books back into balance. Taxes were reduced, the authority debts paid off. The authorities were abolished in Governor Martin's administration. State financing was returned to the methods intended by the Constitution.

Along came Governor Duff, who was elected on a general understanding that he would continue with the financial policies of his two predecessors—but he turned out to be more of a spender than even the Little New Deal regime.

Governor Duff started out with the biggest surplus in all the state's history, and as for revenues, between tax increases and the business boom, they soared to half again as much as ever before. But that wasn't enough. He wanted still more to spend.

At that point, he collided headlong with the Constitution he had sworn to uphold when he took his oath of office.

That Constitution clearly tried to say that no governor and no legislature were to attempt big-scale borrowing without first asking the approval of the Pennsylvania voters.

Every other Governor except one Democrat had so understood it. They had used the plan of a debt-referendum over and over again. None of them has ever sponsored a law to have the Constitution amended to wipe out the need for a referendum on state debts—and neither has Governor Duff, for that matter.

What Governor Duff did do was to fall back on the sleight-of-hand method of confusion and misdirection and indirect borrowing.

Governor Duff, in his Budget Message a year ago, described the Pennsylvania Constitution—which he had previously sworn to uphold—as being "cumbersome and time-consuming." He branded this basic constitutional right of Pennsylvania's citizens to have a voice in their public debts as being "the shackles of an outmoded method of financing." As Attorney General in the Martin administration, he had recommended that Governor Martin sign the bill repealing the General State Authority.

Yet he called upon the Legislature which he controlled to set up not one, but several authorities, and to authorize them to saddle Pennsylvania with a vast debt which none of the citizens had the opportunity of voting for or against.

The General State Authority is now authorized to borrow up to $175,000,000 whether the people of Pennsylvania like it or not. Despite the intention of the Constitution, future taxpayers of this state will have to raise a total of $213,000,000 to pay back just that one debt—laid on their shoulders without their consent.

Pennsylvanians have a method whereby they can authorize the state to borrow money for purposes which they feel are wise and worthwhile. This method was employed just last year, when the voters of the state approved a constitutional amendment providing for a Soldiers Bonus by an overwhelming majority, after this amendment was submitted to them by the State Legislature. The money has been borrowed. The Bonus has been paid. This is the regular and proper way of doing things.

A good many years ago, Grover Cleveland said that "a public office is a public trust."

Some public officials have felt that way about it—others have taken on the arrogant attitude that their will was law, and have ridden roughshod over Constitutional restrictions and the principles of sound government and economy, merely to have their own way.

What I want you to ask yourself, before you decide how to vote in the important May 16th election is this question:

"In this critical hour in American destiny, when the giveaway spending of our national handout crew has brought the national economy to the threshold of collapse—is the man we want to represent our Party in next fall's United States Senatorial election the man who, as Governor, has spent more money, pushed taxes higher, and done more borrowing than any other Governor in Pennsylvania's history?"

How can Governor Duff raise the issue of deficit spending by the Federal Government with Senator Myers when he will obviously be met by the rejoinder that he started or re-adopted this same method in Pennsylvania by a device designed to work around the constitutional prohibitions against borrowing huge sums without approval of the voters? Senator Myers can truthfully say: "We have done nothing in Washington that you haven't done in Pennsylvania. And further, there is no constitutional limit on the national debt and no constitutional prohibition against deficit financing by the Federal Government." If Governor Duff has overcome the restraints against this policy placed upon him by our forefathers, and the practice of all but one of his predecessors in office, what will he do in Washington? There he is faced by no such restraints. There the practice for 25 years has been to follow the policy of unrestrained borrowing and spending.

I am opposed to deficit spending by the Federal Government in peacetime. I am particularly opposed to it in a period when national income and national production are at or near peak levels, and when employment is far above normal, although it is now beginning to drop.

The first step is to cut out all new spending programs until we can afford to pay for them, unless they are of an emergency nature.

I favor making every possible economy in government, including the adoption of the Hoover Commission report in its major phases. To date, I have voted for every recommendation of that Commission upon which the House of Representatives has had an opportunity to vote.

There are many places where expenditures can be cut. I favor such reductions where ever possible. We must follow the old fashioned policy which most American families follow, both in our home finances and in our business finances, of living within our income and, if possible, saving a bit "for a rainy day."

I ask you to become running-mates with me in a drive to streamline our expenditures and cut out the vote buying and political log-rolling.

Remember always that what Russia wants most is a bankrupt America—over-taxed and slowly but surely socialized by men intoxicated with the power of spending other people's money!!!!

Honored at Dinner On Occasion of Retirement

PENNDLE, Apr. 19—A surprise dinner party, which took place at Flannery's restaurant, here, last evening, honored Frank Gorzelski, Burlington, N. J., upon his retirement as an employee of Rohm & Haas Co., Bristol.

Mr. Gorzelski arrived at the site for the affair under the impression he was to attend a small spaghetti party, and was amazed to find 74 gathered to partake of a turkey dinner.

A box filled with a number of small gifts; cash; and an easy chair with ottoman were presented to him. There was also included a guest book containing signatures of all guests.

The group sang as Mr. Gorzelski entered "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Robert Braker served as master of ceremonies; and there were short talks by James Mitchell, Calvin Vansant, Theodore Lesko, and Lewis Wiedeman. Group singing and dancing were indulged in, the organist being William Waterman.

Serving on the gift committee were Mrs. Mary Clapperton and Robert Braker; with dinner committeemen being Lewis Wiedeman and Miss Helen Faras.

Motion pictures and "stills" of the event were taken, the latter to appear in the company publication.

The league will include, in addition to George School C.T.C., Philadelphia Rifle Club, Cynwyd T. C., Logan T.C., Idle Hour, Germantown Y.M.C.A., and West Chester T.C. Both Mr. Cloak and Mr. McGrath headed "C" league teams in 1949 play.

EISENBREY PITCHES HIGH SCHOOL NINE TO WIN OVER OWLS

Bristol High, defending champions of the Lower Bucks County League, opened its league season with a 6-4 verdict over Bensalem Township High yesterday afternoon on Memorial field.

Sensational pitching by Harry Eisenbrey, a home run by "Bill" Moll and triples from the bats of Marty Braam and Joe Dominick featured the game.

Eisenbrey had a shaky first two innings in which he allowed the four runs and three hits. He walked two and hit another to finish the two, ragged frames. But from the second inning on, Eisenbrey was invincible as he failed to allow a run or hit and walked one batter. He ended the game with nine strikeouts to his credit.

Bob Whitfield and Bob Marshall did the mound work for the Owls, allowing nine hits between them. Whitfield struck out four and walked one while Marshall fanned one and walked one.

It started out bad for the Warriors as the Bensalem nine counted three times in the initial canto. Oliver worked Eisenbrey for a pass. Graziosa was hit with a pitched ball. A pickoff of Oliver failed and the runners advanced on Bascio's error. Bowman struck out. Al Bader singled scored both base-runners. Smith singled. Bader going to third. Bader scored on a fielder's choice.

Bristol came back to score a pair of runs in its half of the inning. Braam got on via Graziosa's miscue. Braam stole second. Barbetta grounded out. "Lou" Loeffler singled to score Braam. Loeffler was picked off base for the second out. Moll connected with one of Whitfield's pitches for a home run.

Bensalem made it 4-2 with a run in the second. Clarence Schmidheiser was walked. He went to second on a wild pitch and crossed the plate on Joe Graziosa's single.

Coach Jerry Bloom's team evened the count in the fourth. Joe Dominick tripled with one out. Hedrick walked and stole second. Pindar grounded out, the runners holding their bases. Vito Bascio's hit scored both Dominick and Hedrick.

The Warriors went ahead in the fifth. Marty Braam cracked a triple to left and counted on Frank Barbetta's safe blow.

To make victory certain, Bristol added an insurance run in the last half of the sixth. Braam was given a walk and advanced on Barbetta's hit. He scored on an error by Graziosa.

Bristol had nine hits in the fracas with Braam, Barbetta, and Loeffler getting two each. Braam also had three markers to his credit.

McKINNEY BOWLS 699 IN 3 GAMES ON ALLEY HERE

"Dick" McKinney, who bowls for Kaiser Metal Products in the Bristol Major League, made the amazing score of 699 for three games high last night as the Bristol Bowling Association continued its third annual tournament.

McKinney's score was made while bowling with the five-man Kaiser Metal Products team. It is high for the three-game events thus far and is much higher than the 246 mark of "Vince" Lucif, of Trenton, whose yearly average is 208.

The Kaiser Metal Products team won the five-man event last night with a score of 3094. The Blue White team of the Manhattan Soap League, was second with a 2974 score, while the Chex quintet, of the National League, came in third with a 2967 score.

Although the Kaiser score does not top the 2950 made by the Rech's team, of Morrisville, Sunday evening, it does put the local team in front for the Chamber of Commerce trophy which is awarded only to a Bristol team.

Larry Harrison and H. Nagel, of the Federal League, won the doubles with a score of 2218. Second place went to H. Leach and W. Salerno, of the Manhattan Soap, with a 1222 score. "Vince" Arch and "Pete" Chapman, of Morrisville, still lead the doubles with a 1280 score. High single last night went to McKinney, whose 226 score topped Harrison by five pins.

The matches continue this evening on the Bristol Recreation Center alleys, with eight teams starting to bowl at seven o'clock.

MORRISVILLE WINS

In Lower Bucks County League games played yesterday, Morrisville registered an 8-5 win over Council Rock at Morrisville and Pennsbury topped Neshaun High (Langhorne), 5-4, at Langhorne.

WHAT IS FINAL WORD ON BIG LEAGUE BASEBALL FOR 1950?

(The fifth- and sixth-place finishers of 1949 in both the National and American Leagues have quiet ideas about improving themselves in 1950. The following article, fifth in an International News Service series of six "last looks" at the forthcoming pennant races, probes their chances.)

By Charles Einstein
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Apr. 19—If it is true that pennant chances can be measured by the volume of winter trading, the New York Giants and Philadelphia Athletics, fifth-place finishers of 1949 in the National and American Leagues, can begin taking World Series reservations.

By the same token, the Chicago White Sox, sixth in the American League, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, sixth in the National, can extend the terms of their present leases.

Pittsburgh and Chicago did dabble in the winter market, of a sort. The White Sox collared third baseman Hank Majeski from the Athletics, and Catcher Bill Skelld from the Boston Braves, and the Pirates obtained Pitcher Frank Pappish from Cleveland and Outfielder Mary Rickert from the Braves.

But the Giants and the A's really balled the Jack.

New York was a party to the biggest deal of the winter, when Manager Leo Durocher swapped two sluggers, Sid Gordon and Willard Marshall, a top-line shortstop, Buddy Kerr, and Pitcher Sam Webb to the Braves for Shortstop Alvin Dark and Second Baseman Eddie Stanky. He also bought Jack Kramer, pitcher of repute, from the Red Sox.

Thus he jettisoned the Giants' all-out slugging policy for defensive and added pitching strength.

Connie Mack, 87 years old and entering his 50th season as boss of the A's, brought off the next-biggest winter whooper by sending four players and $100,000 to the St. Louis Browns for the fine third baseman

LANGHORNE

Miss Sarah C. VanArtsdalen, who formerly resided in this section, is a patient in Grand View Hospital, Sellersville, she having broken a hip. Miss VanArtsdalen is a retired school teacher. She was on a step-ladder, attempting to reach some articles, when she fell. She lay on the floor about an hour before residents of another apartment in the building returned and heard her call for aid.

TREE SAFETY

ENGINE, Ore. — (INS) — A small windswept tree standing alone at the brink of a 100-foot precipice recently saved the lives of four Eugene residents. A coupe driven by Ray Swinney missed a curve on the road above the main highway and would have plunged over except for the tree. The car was balanced precariously but all four passengers escaped uninjured.
